

The Pentecostal Voice

Welcome to The Pentecostal Voice: Our English Newsletter

We are committed to creating an educational and appealing newsletter for PS students. The idea behind the newsletter is to unite the school with our words and create a more peaceful and inclusive reading community. In addition, it provides students with a fun way to learn English and lets them stay in touch with recent school events.

Our Newsletter Team

Chief Editor, Jason Yee

Hey everyone! My name is Jason Yee from 5A. I am the Chief Editor of the English Newsletter Editorial Team, and my job is to lead a talented team to deliver the best news and stories possible. I always enjoy reading on platforms such as SCMP and wonder if I could publish pieces of writing just like them, so I joined the team. It is my honour to be on the team, and we are committed to delivering the best content to promote a better English reading community at PS.

Hello, I am Pakto from 5C. I am proudly the main writer of this newsletter, which I found out when I was writing this. Fun fact about me: I am an extrovert outside and an introvert inside. I am interested in music and can play the guitar. I am currently performing in a school band called PaSsion. In the future, I will decide what you are going to read because I am one of the editors of this newsletter. Let us pray that my sense of humour will not fail you.

Writer, Cheung Pakto

Photographer and TS,
Simon Lo

Hi, I am Simon Lo from 5C. I am the Photographer and Technical Specialist of the Editorial Team. I am passionate about taking photographs. Through my lens, I capture moments that tell compelling stories. I enjoy photography very much. Whenever I pick up the camera and go for a city walk or stroll down the street, it helps me focus on the moment without stressing about the future. Photography teaches me to take a break from a stressful life. You must know that there are many precious moments around you.

Hello there. I am Deborah Mak from 5D. To be completely honest, I do not have any sophisticated vocabulary or exquisite expressions to convey my gratitude for taking part in the Editorial Team. It is my pleasure to demonstrate why English is the most elegant and aesthetic language among those we speak in this newsletter. I hope that our sharing will ignite your passion for English.

Proofreader, Deborah Mak

Designer, John Li

Hi there! I am John Li from 5D, and I am thrilled to introduce myself in our very first English Newsletter. I am honoured to participate in the English Editorial Team, which is dedicated to sharing interesting stuff that appears in our daily lives in English. Outside of work, I love reading aloud with a delicate British accent, like what I did in the performance of the English Hall Assembly. Hopefully, our newsletter will bring you joy and a deeper appreciation for the English language.

Modern Reflections: Easter and Ching Ming Festival

An Eggceptional Design

Everyone knows what an Easter egg is, but did you know that the tallest Easter egg in the world is over 16 meters tall? That is more than six elephants combined! The egg was created in Brazil on 18th February 2023, sitting at an impressive 16.72m tall and 10.88m in diameter. It also holds the Guinness World Record for the world's largest decorated Easter egg. Can you imagine standing next to an Easter egg whose length matches a badminton court?

Digital Ancestor Worship

The Qingming Festival originated 2,500 years ago in the Zhou Dynasty and involved emperors sacrificing their ancestors in exchange for prosperity. Emperor Xuanzong of the Tang Dynasty later mandated ancestor tomb worship in 732 A.D. This was tossed out of the window by youngsters. Now, people worship their ancestors on online platforms. I am unsure if my ancestors have the Internet to receive kind words, nor do I want to see their replies. Regardless, is it acceptable? What are your thoughts?

Highlights of the English Hall Assembly and English Week

Do you remember the highlights of English Week and the English Hall Assembly? Look at the precious moments of playing and learning. Our teachers and schoolmates were dedicated to preparing a series of activities including the PS Radio, the rugby workshop, diverse game stalls, and the ambassadors' chitchatting with students.

On the far side of the mysterious magic show, the magnetic movements delivered by the fabulous dancers, the elegant British accent conveyed by our elite, the sensational dramas, the angelic voices as well as the enchanting interaction carried by our MCs, it is remarkable that the English Hall Assembly was once in a lifetime.

We would like to invite you to "showcase your potential" in the upcoming English activities. Beyond the fun and games, we are willing to imply the message that English is more than just a mere language. It is a tool of communication, yet a lifestyle.

Teacher advisors:

Miss Ip Siu Ling

Mrs Putman Mei Kit

Miss Tang Wing Yiu

Mr Chiu Wing Nam